The Works for Viola da Gamba in the Ledenburg Collection

Summary

The State Archive of Lower Saxony (Niedersächsisches Landesarchiv) located in Osnabrück (northern Germany) houses the “Ledenburg Collection,” a collection of music manuscripts and prints from the 18th century, which was not known among scholars until now. The main focus of the collection is music with viola da gamba. Most remarkable among its contents is an original print of the twelve fantasias for viola da gamba solo by Telemann from 1735, which was thought to have been lost. The collection also contains three hitherto unknown gamba sonatas by C.F. Abel. In addition there are ten solo sonatas, five trios and four concerti with viola da gamba as the main instrument. The majority of these works are transcriptions of compositions for other instruments by G. Cervetto, P. Castrucci, J.B. Pla, G. Tartini, F. Schwindl and K. Gretsch. Stylistically the works can be assigned to the early Classical period. The collection might have developed from around 1750.

The Works for Viola da Gamba in the Ledenburg Collection

Description

The Ledenburg Collection

In the year 2000 numerous historical documents from the archive of the Ledenburg manor were transferred to the State Archive of Lower Saxony in Osnabrück. A small part of these documents in the section “Literature, sheet music, drawings” contains music from the 18th century. We refer to this part, which is distributed over nine shelf numbers, as the “Ledenburg Collection.”

The Ledenburg Collection comprises about 350 pages with 28 works in different sizes, counting the bass part of the songs and dances (no. 622) as one work. Most of them are manuscripts; only two works are printed.

The Works for Viola da Gamba

Music for viola da gamba is strongly represented in the Ledenburg Collection, namely in 23 works. The collection therefore is of special interest for gambists. It extends the repertoire with important works which can be assigned to the early Classical period, with the exception of the fantasies by Telemann.

The viola da gamba works can be divided into four groups: one work for viola da gamba solo, thirteen sonatas for viola da gamba and bass, five trios for viola da

Ten works appear anonymously; but we could identify five of them (Cervetto (3), Tartini Sonata in G minor, Abel/Stamitz). In addition we could attribute two works to a known composer (Abel Trios in C major and G major). As a result, three works remain anonymous for now (Sonata in C major, Sonata in G major, Concerto in A major).

⁵ For the Trio no. 528 we have both, one concordance to Carl Friedrich Abel and one to Johann Stamitz.
Six works are incomplete, but we can reconstruct two of these from other sources (Tartini Sonata in G minor, Abel/Stamitz). For two concertos, the missing part can be reconstructed from the context (Milling, Raetzel). Therefore, only two concertos remain incomplete for now (Hardeck, Concerto in A major); we can make all other 21 works available in editions for today’s players.

Among the works, we find many transcriptions for viola da gamba. In the column “Original for” in the table above, we indicate the original instrumentation of the viola da gamba part, if it is known.

With seven works, an additional source enabled us to identify them. These are transcriptions, i.e., works which have originally been written for other instruments but are to be played in the Ledenburg version on viola da gamba. Other manuscripts are explicitly designated as transcriptions. Thus, we know that the viola da gamba part in six cases was originally written an octave higher for flute or violin (Anonymous Sonata in C major, Castrucci, Pla, Tartini Sonata in G minor, Schwindl, Abel/Stamitz), and that three of the viola da gamba sonatas were originally written for violoncello (Cervetto). On the other hand, we can be certain that of the remaining works, at least four were written originally for viola da gamba (Telemann, Abel).

That such transcriptions were quite usual at that time, can also be seen in a remark by Charles Burney about his visit to the Nymphenburg castle in the year 1772: “After this the Elector [Maximilian III] played one of Schwindl’s trios on his Viol da gamba, charmingly: except Mr. Abel, I never heard so fine a player in that instrument; ...”⁶. The trio mentioned could very well be the Trio no. 529 of the Ledenburg collection.

We can divide the composers of the works for viola da gamba into three categories:

1. Georg Philipp Telemann and Carl Friedrich Abel have undoubtedly written the four works in question for the viola da gamba. These composers are among the generally known composers for this instrument.

2. The second category consists of Pietro Castrucci, Giacobo Cervetto, Johann Konrad Gretsch, Juan Bautista Pla, Filippo Ruge, Friedrich Schwindl, Giuseppe Tartini and Johann Stamitz. These composers, although familiar names, are not known until now to have written for the viola da gamba. In most cases we know or assume that the works in question have been transcribed for viola da gamba, however in this category there may still be original compositions for this instrument.

3. The third category consists of Johann Carl Graf (I.) zu Hardeck (Hardegg), Anton Milling and Anton Raetzel, who are largely unknown today. We have attempted to gather all available information about these persons, but our knowledge is still incomplete.

With the exception of the Fantasias by Telemann, which were published in 1735, the printed works which served as models for the Ledenburg copyists are from... the years 1750, 1764 and 1765. Outside the group of works for viola da gamba we find in the Ledenburg collection the Duets by Campioni, which were printed in 1765, and the copy of a single part of the opera by Graun which was performed first in 1748. The dates of death of the composers for viola da gamba lie between 1752 (Castrucci) and 1787 (Abel).

These dates, together with the stylistic attribution of the works to the early Classical period, suggests to us that the Ledenburg collection was developed from the year 1750; the Telemann print of 1735 could also have been purchased later.

Here is some information about the composers in categories 2 and 3, who are probably unfamiliar among gambists.7

Pietro Castrucci

Pietro Castrucci was born in 1679 in Rome and died in 1752 in Dublin. From 1715 he lived in London. He was a student of Corelli and an excellent violinist, who conducted Handel’s orchestra for 22 years. Numerous violin sonatas by him came down to us, of which are two are also playable on the viola d’amore.

Pietro Castrucci had a younger brother, Prospero Castrucci (1690–1760), who also could be the composer for the Sonata no. 527.7.

Giacobo Cervetto

The cellist and composer Giacobo Cervetto (1681/1682–1783) was born in Verona and later went to London, where he gained a great reputation. He was one of a group of London-based Italians who popularized the violoncello as a solo instrument in England. At the age of about 70 he began to publish several compositions for cello, which were quite successful and are still played today. He died at over one hundred years of age. Giacobo should not be mixed up with his son James (1748–1837), who was also a well-known cellist and composer in London.

Johann Konrad Gretsch

Johann Konrad Gretsch (ca. 1710–1778) was a cellist and composer in Regensburg, Germany. From 1770 he was employed there as violoncellist in the Hofkapelle Thurn und Taxis. He composed several works for cello.

Johann Carl Graf zu Hardeck

Carl (I.) Graf zu Hardeck (Hardegg) (1703–1752) is little known. A certain “Giovanni Carlo Conte Hardeck” appeared in the year 1724 in Vienna as cellist at the opera performance of Euristo by Caldara. Hardeck was not known as a composer until now.

Anton Milling

No biographical data of the composer Anton Milling are known. Two English horn concertos by him are preserved in the court library of prince Thurn und Taxis in Regensburg, and in Kroměříž there are seven works for winds.

---

7 More information can be found in the prefaces of the Güntersberg editions of the Ledenburg Collection, see “Editions” on page 14.
Juan Bautista Pla

The Spanish brothers Juan Bautista and José Pla were oboe players, who in the middle of the 18th century were famous for their art, their interaction, and their virtuosity not only in their home country but in all Europe. Juan Bautista Pla (ca. 1720 – after 1773) was employed at the court of Württemberg in Stuttgart for many years. Many works of both brothers for two oboes or flutes have come down to us, but there is just one solo sonata which is not identical with the Sonata no. 527.8.

Anton Raetzel

Anton Raetzel (Retzel) was born in Braunschweig around 1724, became basoonist and composer and later Capellmeister in the service of the duke of Holstein in North Germany. He died after 1760. Several works by him are listed in the Breitkopf catalogues, among them are four cello concerts, which are all lost.8

Filippo Ruge

Filippo Ruge was born in Rome about the year 1722. He became a flautist and at the age of 22 went to Paris, where he lived presumably until his death after 1767. Many of his works in different genres are preserved, and several of these are still popular today.

Friedrich Schwindl

Friedrich Schwindl was born in Amsterdam in 1737 and died in 1786 in Karlsruhe. He was an extremely well known and popular composer, who published among other things 28 symphonies, six operettas and over 50 chamber music works. He worked in many European cities.

Johann Stamitz

Johann Stamitz (1717–1757), of Bohemian origin, is believed to be the founder of the Mannheim School. Numerous works bear witness to his creativity, including 69 Symphonies.

Giuseppe Tartini

The Italian violin virtuoso Giuseppe Tartini (1692–1770) is extremely well known for his concertos and sonatas for violin. In contrast to the other composers in category 2 and 3 there is a relationship between Tartini and the viola da gamba: The Concerto per Viola con Quartetto e due Corni accompagn: da Giuseppe Tartini in D major has been thought of as a solo concerto for viola da gamba or violoncello.9 The attribution to viola da gamba however is controversial.10 Besides this concerto in D major there is also a concerto in A major which has the same difficulty with the solo instrument.

The normal range of the 6 string viola da gamba is fully utilised in the genuine works for gamba (Telemann fantasias and Abel sonatas) and in the works whose origin is the literature for violoncello (Cervetto).

The anonymous solo sonata in G minor also requires the range of the 6 string gamba. The range of the Tartini Sonata in B flat major suggests that it could originally have been a violin sonata. We know that the sonatas by Castrucci, Pla, Tartini in G minor, Ruge and Anonymous in C major are originally written for flute or oboe, and this is confirmed by their range.

In the trios the part of the viola da gamba has the range of a flute or oboe (to be played an octave lower). We know at least that the gamba part of Schwindl and Abel/Stamitz was originally for flute or violin.

If the concertos for viola da gamba were originally written for another instrument, we can say this looking at the range: only the Raetzel Concerto could have been played on flute or oboe, those by Hardeck and Milling are too low. It is in-interesting that the range of the viola da gamba part in all concertos is rather small; the Raetzel concerto has a range of less than two octaves.

The Fantasias by Telemann

The original print of the twelve fantasies for viola da gamba solo by Georg Philipp Telemann is without doubt the most important discovery in the Ledenburg collection. The work was self-published by Telemann in the year 1735, and it was sold through a distribution network. Before the discovery of the Ledenburg Collection however, all copies were thought to be lost. Together with the solo Fantasias for flute and violin they belong to the most important instrumental solo works of Telemann.

Our Edition contains much information on the fantasias.\(^\text{11}\) Therefore we describe here only the original print.

The original print is a thin booklet in upright format of 21.8 x 28 cm with a sturdy cover. It contains 13 sheets: one title page and 12 pages of music. All sheets are printed on one side only, each containing one fantasia. The printed page is on the right. The paper is relatively thin.\(^\text{12}\) The original print shows no signs of usage, but there are erasures and tracings at some places.

The sheets 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 bear the watermark that is reproduced here (height 8.5 cm, width 5.0 cm).

The print space is offset from the centre, i.e. it starts on the left close to the stitched margin and leaves a broader margin at the right. For example in Fantasia 1: left margin 5 mm, right margin 14 mm.

The original print of the music pages consists of three layers of two double sheets (sheets twice as large which are folded in the middle). Each layer thus consists of 8 pages, which contain 4 Fantasias. The outer double sheet holds Fantasias 1 and 4, the inner Fantasias 2 and 3, etc.

We know that every two weeks Telemann offered two fantasias, namely initially Fantasias 1 and 2, then 3 and 4 etc. This can be explained in that the print was done on single sheets which had a margin on the left of about 2 cm, that was folded up. These sheets could be distributed separately at first. Two such sheets could be later combined to form one double sheet, and the double sheets could then be bound together as described above.

The sheet containing the title page was added in front of the layers. There is no empty sheet that might belong to the title sheet after Fantasia 12.

When the booklet was given to the State Archive in 2000, only some parts of the original front cover existed. Thus the original print was restored and newly bound. During the restoration the sheets have been conserved chemically. The \(^{12}\) On the photographs of the State Archive some music has occasionally printed through, e.g. on the title page. This music is from the sheet underneath and not from the back of the same sheet.

The bookbinding process has not altered the original layers, but mainly added a new cover. During the restoration the leaves have not been cut back.

The Ledenburg Castle

The place of discovery of the Ledenburg Collection is the Ledenburg Castle in the neighbourhood of Osnabrück in northwest Germany. Since 2000 the collection has been housed as part of a deposit in the State Archive of Lower Saxony (Niedersächsisches Landesarchiv) located in Osnabrück. In the 18th century Ledenburg was the home of the families von Grothaus and later von Münster. At the beginning of the previous century Walter Schwarze gathered much information about the castle and the family.

Eleonore Elisabeth Helene Sophie von Grothaus was born in 1734 in the Ledenburg castle, where she also spent most of her childhood. She was a poetess, but she also had great interest in art, music and the sciences. Schwarze writes “Among the rhetorical arts ... music took the first place, and much handwritten music for piano, viola d’amour, flute and voice was in her repertoire, which was crowned by Handel and Telemann. The newest arias could be heard, and Eleonore wrote many a poem in this format or following existing melodies, and she expressed the impact of the music when she narrated how Orpheus sang:

Es neigten sich der Bäume Wipfel
bei seiner Leier Harmonie.
Selbst Leu und Bär verließ der Berge Gipfel, der Töne Zauber drang in sie.”

(The treetops bowed
To the harmony of his lyre.
Even the lion and the bear have departed the mountains
As the magic of his music enchanted them.)

Eleonore von Münster was married in 1759 to Baron Georg Hermann Heinrich von Münster. She died 1794 in Hannover. Except for the above-mentioned quote we found no information on the musical life in Ledenburg castle around 1750. Schwarze refers in his appendix to the following volume in the library of Ledenburg as one of his sources “(Bd) 250 : Musikalien.” The Ledenburg library was in the 1920s partly moved to Derneburg and is now in the Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz library in Hanover. In spite of intensive search in Hanover we were not able to find a volume with the number 250, or any other volume with musical contents.

15 Schwarze, ibid. p. 18.
The Ledenburg Collection has a clear emphasis on music for viola da gamba. This suggests that Walter Schwarze thought of the viola da gamba when he wrote about the “viola d’amour”. Music for viola d’amore does not exist in the collection. It is appropriate that Schwarze refers to Telemann, because today, the fantasias by Telemann are considered the most important work of the collection. However, we did not find anything important by Handel, whom he also mentions; there is just a bass part in the “simple songs and dances” (no. 622) of a small aria by Handel. Schwarze correctly reports that the music in the Ledenburg collection is mostly handwritten. However, we did not find a single work which is explicitly written for piano.

Conclusion

The Ledenburg Collection could have been established by an aficionado of the viola da gamba, who gathered music for his or her own use, and who started doing this around 1750. As there were at this time almost no new original compositions for viola da gamba, except for works by Carl Friedrich Abel, he or she commissioned or bought transcriptions for viola da gamba of works from all over Europe. The selection shows a very good knowledge of music literature, and sufficient means. The transcribed works are well playable on the viola da gamba; the octave transposition is by no means detrimental to the harmony. The fantasias by Telemann were perhaps included in the collection as an important work of the past.

The works for viola da gamba in the Ledenburg collection are all written for one viola da gamba. Our person could thus have been a single gamba player who played together with other instrumentalists, but always played the main role, and knew the instrument quite well. The Ledenburg music copies lack bass figures, with a couple of exceptions. Because we know some of the original models we know however that such figures usually existed. Also, the collection has no obligato harpsichord or piano part.

Many things suggest that the so called “aficionado of the viola da gamba” was Eleonore von Münster, however we did not find solid evidence for this. We have only the information in the book by Walter Schwarze (see above).

It is astonishing that the viola da gamba was played so intensively in north western Germany around 1750. Until now it was thought that the composers of the Berlin School around the gamba virtuoso Ludwig Christian Hesse (1716–1772) were the last to deal with the viola da gamba. However we do not find in the Ledenburg Collection any of the viola da gamba works of Johann Gottlieb Graun, Christoph Schaffrath, Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach and the others. It is also apparent that the Ledenburg works in general impose fewer demands on the player than the gamba compositions by Johann Gottlieb Graun.

It is also astonishing that we found four concertos for viola da gamba and strings in the Ledenburg Collection which were until now completely unknown. It was thought that except for the gamba concertos by Telemann, J.G. Graun, Pfeiffer and Tartini nothing else existed in the genre. Apparently however, as well as the virtuoso concertos, there were others which could be mastered by amateur players. We regret that none of these concertos has been preserved in its entirety.

16 In the transcription of the sonatas by Cervetto (no. 527.2–4) the original figures were partly retained. The Adagio by Tartini (no. 527.9) also has figures.

17 Besides Berlin we find Franz Xaver Hammer (1741–1817), Joseph Fiala (1748–1816) and Andreas Lidl (? – before 1789).

Editions

Edition Güntersberg has published the 23 works for viola da gamba which are complete or can be reconstructed. This will be practical editions which are distributed in 15 volumes. Co-editors are Thomas Fritzsch and Günter von Zadow. In these editions the Ledenburg Collection is identified by the logo given above. The graphic used in the logo is taken from a manuscript of the collection (no. 527.1).

The edition of the fantasias by Telemann also includes the complete facsimile of the original print. If the additional models contain bass figures these are transferred to our edition. The 13 solo sonatas have an additional score with a realization. The missing parts in the concertos have been reconstructed by Wolfgang Kostujak.

Acknowledgements

The Ledenburg Collection was discovered by the French musicologist François-Pierre Goy. During his research in spring 2015 he came across hints of this viola da gamba music in an unusual place and immediately realized the importance of the fantasias by Telemann. He informed Peter Holman and Andrew Ashbee of the Viola da Gamba Society in Great Britain. They passed the information on to the German gambist Thomas Fritzsch, who then explored the collection systematically together with me. We were very well supported by the staff of the State Archive of Lower Saxony in Osnabrück, especially by Isabelle Guerreau. We are also very glad that the current owners of the Ledenburg manor, Christiane and Hans Christoph Homan, allowed us to publish the material in modern editions.

I wish to thank all aforementioned for their support.
I also like to thank Michael O’Loghlin for his help with the English translation.

<td>The collected volume contains 13 sonatas for viola da gamba and basso by various composers. The instrumentation “Viola da Gamba and Basso” is only mentioned explicitly in four of the sonatas (Ruge and Abel). It can be assumed for the other sonatas as well because of the consistent use of the alto clef for the solo part.</td>
